Biography

Session 2: Vision of a true sustainable future
Session chair: Roger Torrenti
Day 1 - January 22, 2009

Jeffrey A. McNeely is Chief Scientist at IUCN, where he has worked since 1980. Before joining IUCN, he spent twelve years in Thailand, Indonesia, and Nepal, conducting research and practical application of resource management activities. As IUCN's Chief Scientist, he is responsible for overseeing the work of the world's largest conservation network, with over 1,000 institutional members and 10,000 scientists and other specialists working in biological conservation. He has written or edited over 40 books and 500 popular and technical articles on a wide range of environmental topics, as well as serving on the editorial board of 14 international journals. He is currently working to link biodiversity to environmental security, violent conflict, conflict resolution, sustainable agriculture, human health, biotechnology, climate change, energy, and more traditional fields of IUCN interest such as species, protected areas, ecosystems, and economics. He is a member of the Advisory Committee of the Sustainable Agriculture Initiative Platform, Chairman of the Board of Ecoagriculture Partners, President of the Asia Section of the Society for Conservation Biology, and a member of the Scientific and Technical Council of the International Risk Governance Council.
